May the force be with you

COMMEMORATIVE events have begun across Southend and Castle Point ahead of this weekend's Armed Forces Day celebrations.

Two benches have been unveiled at Canvey's B-17 memorial ground, a street has been named after a war hero in Benfleet and a flag-raising ceremony was held in Southend.

For more photographs of the events and details of memorials still to come, turn to pages 4, 5, 6 and 7.

A FORMER teacher has been charged over alleged sexual offences against children.

Colin Bell, 44, of Rebels Lane, Great Wakering, has been charged with eight alleged crimes.

Bell was a teacher at Westcliff High School for Girls but left in August 2015 after being arrested.

He has been charged with four counts of sexually touching a girl under the age of 18.

He faces two further counts of making indecent images of children.

Additionally, he is charged with one count of possessing prohibited images of children, which Essex Police said related to "non-photographic images", and one count of possessing extreme pornographic images.

Bell was released on conditional bail after being charged.

He is due to appear at Southend Magistrates' Court on July 29.

Police station reopens after extensive revamp

By Pat Higgins

southend@yellowad.co.uk

REFURBISHED Southend police station has reopened.

The building in Victoria Avenue had been closed for almost a year for an extensive makeover.

Essex Police Chief Constable Stephen Kavanagh performed the reopening ceremony last Friday alongside Southend District Commander Chief Inspector Simon Anslow.

A blessing of the building was carried out by Southend police chaplain Rev Edd Stock.

Essex Police and Crime Commissioner Roger Hirst and representatives from close partner organisations in Southend were also present.

Work inside has seen old offices gutted and replaced with a more modern open plan layout.

When the revamp was announced Mr Anslow said: "Maintaining a visible presence across the Southend borough and having somewhere members of the public can speak to us face to face is a priority."

Cash available for firms hit by last year's floods

SOUTHEND firms hit by floods last May could get up to £3,000 cash help from a government scheme.

The business support flood scheme has been extended for those who have sustained hardship and significant loss of trade as a direct or indirect result of the May 31 floods.

Businesses suffering an indirect impact are those which had no, or highly limited, access to premises, equipment and/or stock due to flooding, as well as restricted access to customers and suppliers, which caused a significant loss of trade.

The money is available for:

■ Small and medium-sized businesses to develop and implement business recovery planning, immediate clean-up costs, materials, exceptional businesses costs (such as hire of drying equipment), and temporary accommodation for businesses to continue trading.

■ Business continuity planning and marketing costs.

■ Non-recoverable insurance excesses for repair or replacement of buildings, equipment and stock, removal of debris, additional business accommodation or extra staff costs, structural surveys, security measures, additional marketing, exceptional costs to improve access to/for suppliers and customers.

It will not be used for rewarding poor business practice, such as a business with no insurance, or for routine business expenses, or for costs that are recoverable elsewhere.

The money is only for the impact of flooding from the recent adverse weather conditions. It is not to help with the aftermath of failures of water mains or internal water systems or the failure of a sewage system (unless this failure was itself caused by the adverse weather).

Businesses must apply by 5pm on Sunday, July 31. Email economicd@southend.gov.uk or call 01702 215022.

'We'll never forget...' war hero flag raised

CEREMONIES to honour members of the armed forces, past and present, got underway with the raising of a special flag in Southend on Monday.

Borough mayor Judith McMahon performed the honours, outside the civic centre. Guests included Southend MP David Amess and local armed forces veterans.

The commemorations will continue with the annual Armed Forces parade, which will march along the High Street on Saturday, June 25.

Cadets, serving members of the armed forces and veterans will set off from Southend Central railway bridge at 10.30am and halt outside the Victoria Shopping Centre for an open air service, which will be accompanied by a choir and band.

Veteran and cadet associations will have stalls on the High Street alongside the regular farmers' market.

There will be a display of military vehicles at City Beach on Southend seafront the following day, from 10am until 6pm

Ann Holland, executive councillor for culture, tourism and the economy, said: "These free events offer an opportunity to show support for our Armed Forces — we know from previous years that Armed Forces Weekend really captures the attention of everyone who attends."

CEREMONY: Rev Peter Mallinson gives a short dedication service before blessing the benches

Benches unveiled at B-17 memorial site

TWO benches have been unveiled on the American B-17 bomber memorial ground at The Point, Canvey, where a plane crashed during the Second World War.

They have been installed for people to sit and reflect at the crash site.

A simple but moving ceremony was held on Sunday to officially unveil the benches.

The B-17 Flying Fortress collided with another bomber on June 19, 1944, over the Thames on its way back from a raid in northern France.

The crash is commemorated with a seawall mural and an information board telling the story of the bomber, its crew, the crash and the continued relationship with Canvey.

During the ceremony air scouts read a message from sole survivor Dick Andrews, who is now in his 90s. They also read a poem from the nephew of a gunner who died, and the eye-witness account of Stan Pierce who was nine years old at the time.

Mayors of Canvey and Castle Point, Martin Tucker and Steven Cole, pulled American flags from the benches, as Frank Sinatra's That Old Black Magic, the song one crew member always sang on the way home, was played from a Kindle held by Janet Penn, editor of the community archive website, canveyisland.org.

Rev Peter Mallinson, from St Anne's Church, Canvey, blessed the benches, which were paid for by the island's community archive.

"It was a moving ceremony for us all," Janet said.

Mark of respect

THE FIRST man from Benfleet to die in the First World War has been honoured in a ceremony ahead of Armed Forces Day.

Sapper Stanley Ellison has been immortalised after a street was named after him in his home town, as part of Castle Point's week-long Armed Forces celebrations.

Sapper Ellison was 21 when he was killed at the Battle of Mons on August 23, 1914.

On June 20, Castle Point mayor Steven Cole unveiled the sign on the new road - Sapper Ellison Way.

"The naming of this street will ensure he is not forgotten and that his name lives for ever," he said.

Also present was the Mayor's chaplain, the Rev Marion Walford, who blessed the street.

The party then moved to the civic offices in Kiln Road, where the mayor raised a special flag for Armed Forces Day as a bugler from Thundersley Brass Band played The Last Post, watched by an enthusiastic crowd of veterans, residents and children from Thundersley Junior School - despite heavy rain.

A contingent of Territorial Army Royal Engineers were also on duty.

The ceremonies will continue with a parade on Canvey Island on Saturday, June 25.

A permanent exhibition relating to Sapper Ellison has been set up in the atrium at the civic offices.

Badger rescue duo earn their stripes

NET GAIN Hey, little fella - let's get you home... ..gotcha! And back home for tea

A BADGER cub had to be rescued when it became stranded in a canal after an unplanned dip.

A member of the public called RSPCA officer Lucy Fackerell last Wednesday after she had seen the badger running up and down a stretch of canal in Westcliff.

The cub could not scale the four foot concrete embankment to escape back to its sett.

Lucy was soon joined by RSPCA inspector Marie Hamerton, and together they eventually cajoled the hapless cub into a net.

Lucy said: "The area around the canal was very slippery with lots of moss around so I think the poor badger must have just fallen down into the canal."

"Fortunately, I managed to find an active set directly behind where the cub was scrabbling to get up. So once caught, it was released and quickly scurried down the sett.

"I'm so pleased we were able to help this little one out and that it had a happy ending."

The rescue gave Lucy a chance to remind readers how they can help the RSPCA's future work. "We can only carry out rescues like this with your help," she said. "So please text HELP to 78866 to give £3."

Sweet treats help dementia appeal

STUDENTS took a trolley of cupcakes around Southend Hospital to mark a specially designated Alzheimer's Society Day to raise money for its dementia appeal.

Last Thursday was Cupcake Day and society members and the hospital's dementia team were joined by students from the University of Essex's Southend campus to take a selection of treats to take to staff, patients and visitors.

Michael Daley, hospital

dementia practitioner, said: "It was great to meet so many people and raise awareness not just of the appeal but also of the services we and the Alzheimer's Society offer within the trust."

The hospital appeal aims to raise £100,000 to provide two therapeutic and interactive day rooms at the hospital, as well as specialist hearing aids, bed and chair sensors, mobile sensory units and reminiscence items such as memory boxes.

SUPPORT: Alison Ingleby, dementia support worker Alzheimer's Society, volunteer Sharon Efallah, Janet Twyman, member rescuer, Michael Daley, dementia practitioner and Wendy Daniel, CQUIN audit clerk

Blitz on motorists who ignore parking penalties

DRIVERS who ignore parking fines could see their cars towed away and face a bill to get them back, Southend Council warns.

The council is planning a blitz on persistent evaders with three or more outstanding unpaid fines by taking their vehicles to a pound.

It will use existing law against offenders who have multiple penalty notices.

If such a vehicle is parked illegally, the council will issue a further notice and have it impounded, and the owner will have to pay a £105 removal fee and £12-a-day storage charge.

Tony Cox, executive councillor for transport, waste and cleansing, said: "What this legislation allows us to do is remove vehicles that are consistently parked in contravention of restrictions and whose owners consistently ignore their subsequent penalty charge notices."

Queen Victoria set to get royal wash and brush-up

THE statue of Queen Victoria on Southend's Cliff Town Parade is to get a little TLC.

It will get a right royal wash and brush-up and was dressed in a scaffolding overcoat last Wednesday, ready to have a spa treatment fit for Britain's second longest reigning monarch.

"Queen Victoria's eye-catching statue is a commanding presence overlooking the seafloor," said Ann Holland, executive councillor for culture, tourism and economy.

"We have a continuing programme of cleaning and restoring monuments and war memorials in our parks.

"It is fitting that it is Queen Victoria's turn to be perked up during the current joyful celebrations for the 90th birthday of our own Queen Elizabeth – who just this year overtook her earlier majesty's longest reigning record."

The statue was presented to Southend by the then mayor, Bernard Wiltshire Tolhurst, to mark Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee in 1897.

It was originally at the top of Pier Hill, where cheeky residents joked that it looked as if she was pointing towards the gents toilets.

In 1962 the statue was moved to her present location in Cliff Town Parade.

Staff from specialist firm Basildon Stone will use a super-heated low pressure wash system, assisted by a heavy duty detergent, to remove stubborn grease marks and ingrained grime, and restore the structure to mint condition.

CLEAN: The statue will be restored to mint condition

Special PC exposed after jail term for sex offence

A VOLUNTEER police officer has left the force after being exposed as a paedophile.

Special Constable James Alexander resigned earlier this year after being convicted of a sexual offence against a 14-year-old girl.

The case was revealed in an Essex Police misconduct report earlier this month, but Alexander was granted anonymity and the extent of his offending was not detailed.

The document said an officer had been involved in an "inappropriate relationship with a minor". But a Yellow Advertiser investigation has unearthed details of the officer's trial at Croydon Crown Court earlier this year.

Alexander, 28, of West House Close, SW19, pleaded not guilty in March 2015 to a charge of causing or inciting a 14-year-old girl to engage in sexual activity. He had been arrested a month earlier.

The offence was not connected to his work as a special constable. Alexander was convicted in April this year and resigned from Essex Police shortly afterwards.

On May 6 Judge Peter Gower QC sentenced the former officer to 18 months in prison.

An Essex Police spokesman said: "He has resigned from his position at Essex Police."

"Anyone who has any concerns about his conduct while serving as a special constable should contact us."

Police feel heat of public complaints

AN ESSEX police officer has resigned after admitting to stealing from a member of the public.

The officer was given a criminal caution after admitting the offence in response to a complaint by the victim.

The case was among almost 400 complaints which were made against Essex Police in the first three months of this year.

The allegations were revealed in a misconduct report published earlier this month.

Papers showed the force received 343 complaints against officers and a further 41 against civilian staff between January and March this year.

They included 25 alleged assaults by officers and staff, 12 complaints of discrimination, six of perjury or irregularity in evidence and one of corruption.

The report revealed three officers have been placed on restricted duties while the Independent Police Complaints Commission (IPCC) probes their alleged failure to investigate a domestic violence incident or put proper safeguards in place for the victim.

Another officer is under investigation by Essex Police's Professional Standards Department for alleged 'fraudulent allowance claims'.

Further complaints included 27 reports of unlawful detention, 12 of oppressive conduct, 19 of unlawful arrest and 189 of general 'failures in duty'.

The most common complaint under 'failures in duty' was that the force had failed to investigate crimes.

The report also detailed complaints made prior to January which were still being dealt with.

These included one for gross misconduct by allegedly submitting false mileage claims and another for an alleged assault.

One officer and one member of staff received criminal cautions in the first quarter of the year for breaches of the Data Protection Act, while another officer received a 'sanction' after failing to identify the public risk posed by a suspected sex offender.

Another officer is suspended from duty while the Professional Standards Department investigates a claim they made 'inappropriate contact' with a 'vulnerable female' following a domestic abuse incident.

New Police and Crime Commissioner Roger Hirst said: "These reports contain details of some troubling cases, and we need to ensure they are dealt with in a way that bolsters the ethical framework within the force, so that officers and staff can continue with confidence to offer a professional service, delivered with integrity, often in difficult circumstances."

WRONG ARM OF THE LAW The public made 384 complaints against police officers or staff during the first quarter of this year

27 complaints of unlawful detention

Appreciate our local members

THE killing of Labour MP Jo Cox reminded me how we need to cherish our democracy and appreciate the work our elected MPs do.

The media perception of MPs is often that they are "in it for themselves", are untrustworthy liars, and spend too much time in the House of Commons' bars. This is false.

When Parliament is sitting the hours are long and late. Many MPs employ their spouse so that they can see them. Politics is a rough deal for non-political spouses and Westminster has produced a very high number of failed marriages.

When Parliament is not sitting most MPs work hard in their constituencies, but may travel the best part of a day to get there because most constituencies are far from Westminster.

Most MPs hold a weekly surgery, which might be scheduled for two hours but will often run for much longer.

No MP turns away a constituent in desperate need who has queued to see them.

Most MPs spend hours visiting constituents and community groups, either to resolve problems, such as controversial planning applications, or because an event may require the MP's presence, such as Remembrance Sunday.

Most MPs have a huge workload without the burden of acting as a party spokesman on a policy area, so many stay as backbenchers.

The House of Commons is often empty because most MPs are more effective outside the chamber, working behind the scenes, meeting constituents, pressure groups and anyone who wants to bend their ear.

Most people had never heard of Mrs Cox. She wasn't a "rent-a-quote" politician always on TV and radio. Like most MPs she worked out of the spotlight, for her constituents and the causes important to her. Most MPs are people you have never heard of, and possibly never will.

MPs are held in such low esteem in Britain but it's not the cushy number many would have you believe. Most people go into politics, not to make money but to make a difference, and change the world for the better.

Mrs Cox's death will put many off going into politics. It has become a nasty business where too many question their opponents' motives rather than debate the issues. Social media magnifies those differences and gives a voice to anonymous contributors who abuse those they disagree with.

For our democracy to function more people will need to put themselves forward to become the MPs of the future.

So, this week, let's appreciate the good work that our elected MPs do.

David Bodimeade

Churchill would turn in his grave

I WAS extremely disappointed at the quality of the letter you published in last week's Yellow Advertiser.

It was not only patronising, misleading and bordering on the hysterical.

There were a number of errors of fact. No doubt, if you read certain newspapers, you might get the impression that the EU has a corrupt bureaucracy where the accounts are not signed off by the auditors.

This is just not the case. The EU was congratulated by the auditors on its success in identifying where there had been some error or waste. It also noted that the cause of the waste was very often in the member countries and was very often retrievable.

You really shouldn't believe everything you read in the paper (with the possible exception of the Yellow Advertiser, of course).

It is also completely misleading to suggest that commissioners can "make whatever decisions on policy they desire". Decisions on policy are made by the Council of Ministers which is made up of elected representatives from each country. All decisions on policy are democratic.

Commissioners work to implement the decisions made by the Council of Ministers.

On many issues, our democratic representatives have a veto, for example, the formation of a European Army, or the admission of Turkey into the EU.

When I am working hard to run my own business I very often find that I have to do things I do not want (like getting up early or working late).

I have to make compromises and sacrifice some of my freedoms.

I could choose to see this as a loss of my personal sovereignty or I can see it as making sensible compromises in order to make my business successful in the real world.

Let us not forget that it was Winston Churchill, one of the greatest patriots that Britain has ever produced, who was one of the visionaries that kick-started the development of the European Union.

In 1942 he wrote: "I look forward to a United States of Europe, in which the barriers between the nations will be greatly minimised and unrestricted travel will be possible."

In 1947 he became the founder and first Chairman of the United Europe Movement and in 1948 he gave a speech in which he said: "We cannot aim at anything less than the Union of Europe as a whole, and we look forward with confidence to the day when that Union will be achieved."

Why was he such a passionate supporter of a United Europe? Obviously because he, better than anyone else, understood the risks connected with the alternative.

Malcolm Karmy Southend-on-Sea

No taste for referendums

I'VE concluded that I don't like referendums very much, this being my third, although I totally agreed with the resounding "Yes" to membership of the EEC as was in 1975, but was disappointed with the, equally resounding "No" to changing our profoundly undemocratic first-past-the-post electoral voting system to proportional representation.

I don't like them because I don't think they really have a place in a representative parliamentary democracy such as ours. I don't like them because a representative parliamentary democracy is not a mobocracy.

For sure people's wishes must be taken into account by their elected representatives, but when so many have been angrily wound up by the decades of EU dissing of a certain wealthy Australian/naturalised American newspaper magnate, in the main, and others who in no way have the best interests of the people of this land at heart; is it sensible to consult them in a state like this?

Moreover, our schoolchildren are never taught about how the EU works and our newspapers have never historically discussed these workings other than to mock the more odd directives emanating from the, admittedly unelected civil service (aren't they all) of the EU – the European Commission – that stands no chance of making it past the two-part legislature of the Council of Ministers (elected government ministers of each of the 28 nations currently involved in this great enterprise) and the MEPs elected by a much fairer proportional representation than even our own MPs.

And an ignorant section of voters does not make for civilised decision making in the nation's interests in such a polarising exercise as a referendum.

It makes for some very angry people and, it seems, the killing of a committed politician going about her job.

Convert your attic for anything with Loftman

CONVERTING your loft for storage is one of the easiest conversions you can do – and one of the cheapest.

Loft conversions are great storage solutions for all of your unwanted and even wanted goods, or a great place to keep items out of sight for a few months or even years.

If you are planning a family, you may need the extra storage room to put your baby clothes in, or you may want to put some of your current possessions into the loft to clear some space.

Using loft space as storage is also a popular option if you have a commercial business downstairs and need more room to store work belongings, giving your business the space to expand without the need to move.

Loftman's luxury storage rooms can include the strengthening of the loft joists, flooring, lighting, access, roof insulation, stud walls, windows and ready to skim plasterboard throughout.

It can also install access doors into the eaves – offering valuable storage space on both sides of the room.

Depending on what you want to store in your loft will determine how much work needs to be done to create the extra loft space. Luxury storage rooms are surprisingly affordable at just a fraction of the cost of a standard loft conversion.

For example, a loft conversion on an average sized two bedroom terrace house costs just £3,999, including supply and fitting.

To book a free, no-obligation survey, call now on 07973 672227.

Raven swoops into town

By Liz Wade and Simon Button

features@yellowad.co.uk

WHILE serving soldier Richard Jones became the first magician to win Britain's Got Talent this year, it was the runner-up of last year's show, Jamie Raven, who prompted Simon Cowell to say: "I now finally believe in magic."

Although he missed out on the title, Jamie has enjoyed a whirlwind year since the ITV show, during which he amazed audiences and captured the UK public's hearts thanks to his humble and charming style.

His opening audition on the show has now been viewed on YouTube more than 15million times, and more than 90m people around the world have seen his BGT video on Facebook.

Jamie's ambition was always to take his magic to a wider audience and BGT finally gave him that chance.

Following the show he headlined record-breaking West End box office smash hit, The Illusionists, and now he has just embarked on his debut solo tour, taking to the stage in Cardiff last week for the opening night.

The tour, which includes an appearance at Cliffs Pavilion, Southend, on Sunday, July 3, promises everything from close-up magic to much grander illusions.

Jamie said: "As with The Illusionists, it's amazing to be able to perform in theatres because it gives you the best showcase for any performance art."

"The Illusionists was great and I was part of a bigger show, which was awesome, but the thing I'm looking forward to the most is the fact people will be coming to see me."

"They're going to see the culmination of 20 years of my life and I'm in such a privileged position to be able to share all that and my take on the art that I love."

He adds that he and a team of people who have written the show wanted to tick all the boxes.

"There'll be some close-up stuff that people might be familiar with from Britain's Got Talent, some audience participation, people coming up on stage with me, grander-scale illusions and hopefully a lot of laughs along the way."

While BGT also led to appearances on BBC television's Bruce's Hall of Fame with Alexander Armstrong, and the chance to film a series of tricks for BBC Sport at football grounds up and down the country, Jamie admitted it's easier to perform on stage.

Stage easier than TV

"When you're performing live on stage as a magician it's better because people can't pause and rewind it," he said.

"Magic works because fundamentally you're misdirecting people's attention so when it's live it's fantastic because you know people are watching you and you only have one chance.

"They don't know what you're going to do so they don't know where to be looking at what time.

"With TV it's amazing because if you just stand there and the camera's looking at you then you can show people at home exactly what you want them to see.

"The difficulty with performing live is that you want to stage it so that everybody can see everything, so even the person at the back of the room can see what the person at the front is seeing.

"That brings its own challenges; if you're doing something that's not suitable for a screen you've got to stage it and light it so that everybody can see everything."

While a lot of work goes into putting together a solo tour, there are pre and post-show rituals that Jamie admits to.

He said: "Post-show I like to pack everything up. I also get changed as soon as I can.

"If I'm wearing a suit or something, I don't find it very comfortable.

"I wear suits because they look smart but I like to get changed as quickly as I can after a show.

"Before a show, I don't have OCD or anything, but I'm always checking all the props.

"If, for example, I'm doing a trick with some envelopes, I'll check them and I'll check them again.

"I'll go away for five minutes, check them again and I know they're fine but I've got this thing in me where up until literally the second before I'm going to go on, I'll check the envelopes are in the right order in my pocket, so when I pull them out they're the right way round.

"I'll check them in the dressing room and they're fine.

"I'll check them when I get downstairs and they're fine and, as if some fairy might have gone into my pocket and switched them around, I'll do another check."

INDEPENDENCE DAY: RESURGENCE
(12A, 120 mins)

It has been 20 years since US President Thomas J Whitmore (Bill Pullman) issued his rallying cry to the human race and inspired a global air force including crack pilot Steven Hiller (Will Smith) to repel alien invaders intent on destroying earth.

Following the devastating show-down, the United Nations establishes a new early warning program named Earth Space Defense (ESD) under the direction of kooky scientist David Levinson (Jeff Goldblum), which should alert us to future incursions by hostile extraterrestrials.

We also salvage the remains of the alien technology and adapt it to create a more advanced military.

However, we are blissfully unaware that the aliens from the initial attack sent a distress signal to the rest of their battalion before their defeat and a powerful second wave is poised to storm the planet.

Current President Elizabeth Lanford (Sela Ward) issues the battle cry and ace pilots take to the skies including Hiller's stepson Dylan (Jessie Usher), former President Whitmore's daughter Patricia (Maika Monroe) and Jake Morrison (Liam Hemsworth), whose parents perished 20 years ago during the failed initial invasion.

THE SECRET LIFE OF PETS
(U, 91 mins)

CREATURES great and small wreak havoc on the streets of New York City in Chris Renaud and Yarrow Cheney's colourful computer-animated romp.

PILOT: Liam Hemsworth
as Jake Morrison
PA Photo/Twentieth Century Fox

Employing a similar framework to Toy Story, The Secret Life Of Pets imagines what our four-legged, feathered and finned friends get up to when our backs are turned, suggesting that the fun begins when we go to work or school.

A Jack Russell terrier and an affection-starved mongrel replace Woody and Buzz Lightyear as the feuding central characters, whose rivalry mellow into mutual affection when they are separated from their owner.

The central concept is not original but there's an infectious charm to every shiny frame of Renaud and Cheney's well-groomed picture, which mercilessly exploits our affection for the critters that share our homes.

Katie (voiced by Ellie Kemper) lives in her Manhattan apartment with a mischievous terrier named Max (Louis CK).

He is good friends with other domesticated animals and birds including a pampered Eskimo dog named Gidget (Jenny Slate), who is head over fluffy tail in love with Max, and a sardonic house cat named Chloe (Lake Bell), who nurtures a healthy disdain for anything that doesn't enrich her selfish existence.

Max's bond with Katie is threatened when his owner brings home a lolling mongrel named Duke (Eric Stonestreet), who she has saved from the pound.

Intense rivalry spills out onto the city streets where Max and Duke fall foul of a sphynx cat called Ozone (Steve Coogan) and are mistaken for strays by animal control officers.

The snarling enemies are rescued by a maniacal white rabbit named Snowball (Kevin Hart), who pressgangs them into service in his army of unwanted animals, who live in the sewers.

The Secret Life Of Pets is the brainchild of the makers of Despicable Me and Minions, and retains a similar visual style and family-friendly humour.

Behavioural tics of each breed are mercilessly exploited for slapstick laughs and co-directors Renaud and Cheney maintain a brisk trot to ensure young audiences don't go for walkies in the middle of the film.

AMUSE the children over the summer and help a good cause at the same time by signing up to one of Remus Memorial Horse Sanctuary's pony days.

The sanctuary in Buttsbury, near Ingatestone, has announced the popular days will return during the holidays and will run every Wednesday during August.

Suitable for boys and girls, aged nine and over, the days are ideal for those who love being around horses and ponies or are thinking of getting one.

Each child will be "loaned" a pony during the events and enjoy fun throughout the day, while picking up tips and information about everything from making up a feed and grooming a pony, to turning the animal out into the field and cleaning its stable.

Places on all the days, which cost £45 per person, are limited so make sure you book your place in advance as soon as possible.

All money raised from the pony days goes back into the sanctuary, which had to cancel two vital fundraising events recently due to wet weather.

Ever since it was set up in 1983, following the plight of horses on Rainham Marshes cut off when water inlets flooded, the sanctuary has helped hundreds of horses across Essex and further afield.

Today the sanctuary provides rehabilitation and lifetime care for more than 200 horses, ponies, donkeys, cows, sheep, goats and cats.

Many of the animals have been victims of physical and mental abuse because of ignorance or malicious intent.

Events such as the pony days play a vital part in raising much-needed cash to keep the sanctuary going.

Founder Sue Burton says: "We are delighted to welcome children and horse lovers back to the sanctuary for our pony days this year."

"The work we do here is vital and these days are both great fun and a great way of educating the kids on animal welfare."

For further information about the days, which run from around 11am to 4pm, and to book a place, visit the sanctuary's website at remussanctuary.org or call 01277 356191.

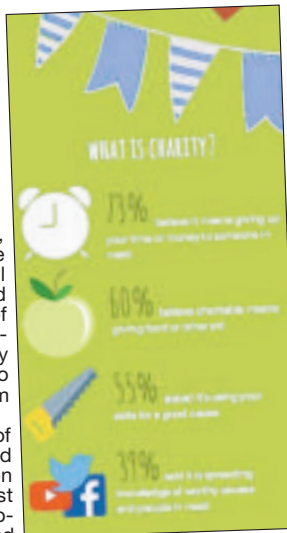

■ There is also a pony day for adults on Sunday, August 14.

Fancy that!

NEW research has revealed that as a community-minded region, we embrace small local charities and groups, as well as the charitable services they provide.

The findings, released to celebrate last week's Small Charity Week, found that 87 per cent of those that have supported a local charity in the last year, did so by purchasing an item from a charity shop.

The UK-wide poll of 2,000 people, carried out by OnePoll on behalf of specialist charity insurance broker PolicyBee, found that other forms of getting involved and supporting local charities included 33 per cent of people attending a charity event, 27 per cent volunteering, and 19 per cent of people donating online.

Overall, many Brits feel there is a strong connection between charity and local community, with almost 50 per cent of those that volunteer locally, choosing to do so simply to "give back to their communities".

Findings also showed that the younger generation of 25 to 34-year-olds lead the way when it comes to community spirit, with 48 per cent of those that have ever volunteered stating they volunteer to give back to their community, with 11 per cent doing so to feel a part of their community.

The research also illustrates the different perceptions that the public has of the concept of charity.

When asked what the word charitable meant to them, 73 per cent believe it means giving up your time or money to someone in need, 60 per cent believe it means giving food or other aid, 55 per cent stated it is using your skills for a good cause and 39 per cent said it is spreading knowledge of worthy causes and people in need.

Auction House – which has a branch in Essex - recorded its highest performing first quarter in the nine year history of the company.

Between January and March this year, the award-winning auctioneer sold an impressive 729 lots from 939 offered, raising a total of over £92 million pounds.

Commenting on the figures, Andrew Stallard said: "This is another set of excellent figures for the brand, helped in no small measure by the hectic push for completions before the introduction of extra Stamp Duty in April. However, it also means that according to the Essential Information Group (EIG), Auction House growth is now more than 10% ahead of other UK auctioneers, whose average growth was just 2.3% during the same period."

Auction House is also reporting that entries for its April auctions are at a similar level to last year, but that viewer activity has dropped back – something the group puts down to buyer hesitancy as the Stamp Duty rise and the upcoming Brexit vote take hold.

Andrew Stallard explained: "I believe that the auction market will quickly find the new norm, with investor buyers factoring in the new rates of Stamp Duty.

There is still a real shortage of housing stock in the UK, and population numbers are rising. Rents are pushing up too and first time buyer numbers are increasing aided by the many favourable government initiatives. However, the bigger influence for buyer sentiment during the second quarter this year will no doubt be the debate over Brexit".

"The property market never likes uncertainty – and the reduced demand means that more bargains could be found around the country in our auctions during April, May & early June. Our view is that the time is right for prudent investors to dip in rather than duck out."

Andrew Stallard says that the other change Auction House is witnessing is the growing number of 1st time & family buyers purchasing for owner occupation. He added: "This group now has a competitive advantage over those buying for improvement or investment. With auctions being increasingly seen as the route to a quick and certain purchase, we will be extending our services to help many more of them to switch from renting to home ownership."

Race-bred Mini up for the challenge

By Mike Torpey

A NEW race-bred Mini is about to hit UK streets as a strictly limited edition model.

Called the Mini John Cooper Works Challenge, it is based on the fiery Mini JCW Hatch variant but adds some upgrades to make it more track focused.

The Challenge bit refers to the racing series that has been running since 2002.

And with that in mind the Mini development team in Oxford has worked with the racing car's key suppliers to ensure the newcomer "delivers bespoke track performance to levels never before seen in the small hot hatch class".

Limited to a maximum of 100 cars, the model features a unique colour combination and graphics, genuine Mini JCW Pro Accessories, and is available in one fixed specification only with a tab of £32,000.

The new special edition uses the latest Mini John Cooper Works Hatch as its basis – itself the most potent Mini ever produced – and is powered by a 2.0-litre twin turbo engine developing 231bhp.

It uses a six-speed manual transmission, can scorch from 0-62mph in 6.3 seconds, has a top speed of 153mph, yet can return 42.2mpg with CO2 emissions of 155g/km.

Bespoke styling includes enlarged air intakes at the front for increased cooling, contoured wheel arch extensions and a rear spoiler, while the cabin features John Cooper Works sports seats and sports steering wheel.

Satisfied with the car's degree of power, the engineering team concentrated more on the Challenge model's chassis, tyres and braking.

So the car is supplied with recommended settings for both road and track driving, the damper units offering adjustment through numerous "clicks", though owners can choose to experiment with their own settings to tune the car to their own tastes.

And it comes shod with 17-inch Michelin Pilot Sport Cup 2 tyres, original equipment for a host of high-performance cars, plus grooved and part-drilled 330mm front disc brakes with four-pot Brembo-developed calipers.

The new John Cooper Works Challenge also uses the Mini JCW Pro Accessories like splitters and spoiler add-ons already available for John Cooper Works Hatch.

Every Challenge model is painted in White Silver, can be readily identifiable by a bespoke graphics package, black roof and mirror caps and also has the alloy wheels finished in black.

PAYNE SET TO JOIN TERRIERS

Football

SOUTHEND United midfielder Jack Payne is set to quit the Blues to link up with Championship outfit Huddersfield Town.

The 21-year-old, who made his debut for the Blues in a Capital One Cup tie with Yeovil Town in 2013, turned down the opportunity to stay with Phil Brown's men and will join the Terriers on a three-year deal once his current contract at Southend expires on July 1.

Payne scored nine times in his 35 appearances during the last campaign.

Southend will be entitled to compensation due to the player being under the age of 24.

Milne ruled out through injury

Cricket

ADAM Milne has suffered an injury setback and has been ruled out of his upcoming NatWest T20 Blast spell with Essex Eagles.

Milne was due to replace Wahab Riaz, who joins up with Pakistan for the upcoming Test series, but now requires surgery on an elbow injury he sustained recently.

The New Zealand international had been signed for the final seven matches of the campaign but faces an extensive period on the sidelines and will no longer be able to appear at the E.C.G.

The coaching staff are moving quickly to find a replacement for Milne and hope to have someone in place in the coming weeks.

Head coach Chris Silverwood said: "It is disappointing for ourselves and Adam as we were excited by his arrival. Unfortunately, he requires surgery on an elbow injury he picked up previously.

"Although it is unfortunate he can't join us we have a list of replacements that we are working hard to bring in. Hopefully we can treat the fans to an exciting arrival in the coming weeks."

Harriers up to standard

Athletics

THURROCK Harriers athletes took part in the Essex Schools Championship at Melbourne Park, Chelmsford.

As well as gaining PBs and medals, many also reached the Essex and/or national standard, meaning that they can wear the Essex county vest.

In the Intermediate Girls Amber Pullinger gained a gold Essex medal in the 1500m with a time of 4.40.51s, gaining the Essex standard.

Kendrea Nwaelen (representing Southend) also won a silver medal after her 200m race and gained Essex standard with a time of 25.60s.

In the Intermediate Boys William Adeyeye not only won a gold Essex medal in the 100m with a PB of 11.05s, he was also chosen to represent Essex after reaching Essex standard.

In the Junior Boys Daniel Ogutuga won a bronze Essex medal and ran a PB in the 100m of 11.78s.

Theo Adesina took home a silver Essex medal after his Essex standard time of 11.81s in the 80m Hurdles.

In the Junior Girls Funminiye Olajide jumped a fantastic PB in the long jump, with a distance of 5.55m to gain a gold Essex medal. It was enough to wear the Essex vest and also is well over national standard.

Hayley Instance gained a bronze Essex medal in the 800m with a time of 2.23.83s.

Alex Gordon (representing Castle Point and Rochford) brought home a PB and a bronze medal in the discus with a throw of 25.66m.

Non-league round-up

Blues and O's veteran signs for Braintree Town

By Brian Jeeves

BRAINTREE Town manager Jamie Day has continued to shape his squad ahead of the new National League campaign with the signings of Lee Barnard and midfielder Craig Branham-Barrett.

Striker Barnard, 31, brings a wealth of experience to Cressing Road. After starting his career with Tottenham Hotspur, has represented a number of Football League clubs, including Southend United and Leyton Orient.

Speaking to the Iron's official website about his capture, boss Day said: "Lee's got bags of experience, played plenty of League football and scored nearly 80 goals at that level. He'll be a great addition to the squad."

Midfielder Branham-Barrett arrives from Dover Athletic, having enjoyed spells at Peterborough United, Macclesfield Town and Ebbsfleet United after starting out at Charlton Athletic.

Day said: "Craig's played a lot of his football on the left in defensive roles, but I do see him pushing further forward for us. He has great pace and is a very direct player. He has a bit of a point to prove. He certainly has the hunger I'm looking for."

Ryman League Division One North new boys Bowers & Pitsea have been honoured with the Essex Senior League Achievement Award marking the club's run of success during the last campaign.

Bowers were promoted for the first time in 42 years after lifting the ESL title, but this particular accolade marks their incredible run to the semi-final of the FA Vase and reaching the quarter-final of the Essex Senior Cup.

Other news from the Len Salmon Stadium club saw the addition of winger James Thomas ahead of the new campaign.

Thomas, who joined Bowers from Saffron Walden Town, had spells with Takeley and Bishop's Stortford Swifts. He first came to manager Rob Small's attention when he was at Southminster St Leonards.

Bowers have announced an increase in admission for fans next season, bringing them in line with the additional cost of promotion to the Ryman League. The new prices are adults £9, and OAPs and under-16s £4.

Ryman League Division One North outfit Maldon & Tiptree have announced their list of retained players ahead of the new season. Matthew Lock, Billy Roast, Darren McQueen, Kieran Monlouis, Kyle Hammond, Adam Mills, Sam Newson, Shaun Phillips, Gavin Greenfield, Rhys Henry, Curtis Haynes-Brown, Darren Mills, David Levey and Tarryn Allarakhia will all be remaining with the Jammers, while MJ Kedman links up with the club from Sky Bet League One club Sheffield United.

The Park Drive club have added two warm-up fixtures, taking on Stanway Rovers at Colchester United's Florence Park Training Ground on Saturday, July 16 (3pm), then travelling to Needham Market, Suffolk, on Saturday, August 6 (3pm).

Essex Senior League outfit Ilford have updated their pre-season programme. The full list of fixtures are as follows: Debden Sports (away) Tuesday, June 28 (7pm); Aveley (at the Robert Clack School) Saturday, July 9 (2.45pm); Tilbury (Robert Clack School) Tuesday, July 12 (7.45pm); Enfield Town (Robert Clack School) Tuesday, July 19 (7.45pm); Harold Hill (away) Saturday, July 23 (3pm); Kelvedon Hatch (Robert Clack School) Thursday, July 28 (7.45pm); Great Wakering Rovers (Robert Clack School) Saturday, July 30 (2.45pm) and Romford (Cricklefield Stadium) Wednesday, August 3 (7.45pm).
